ENROUTE TO COLUMBUS, O.,
Oct. 12.—President Roosevelt swung deep into the hotly contested state of Ohio today, pressing for more and more speed in building up national defenses, yet leaving behind him a confident prediction that the United States will "be able to avoid being brought into war.""But I believe, and I think most of you do, too, that the best way to avoid an attack is to be ready to meet one," the president told a cheering station crowd of some 35, 000 at Akron last night.Mr. Roosevelt's current and hectic two-day swing through Pennsylvania and Ohio for the first time in the 1940 presidential campaign brought reminiscences of his high-profile effort in 1936, when crowds literally poured themselves into the streets and railway stations to shout and cheer. Pittsburgh turned out with a throng that was anybody's guess from a quarter of a million up. Youngstown produced what officials termed the largest crowd ever assembled in the downtown area. Akron jammed the railroad right of way to capacity, and

By train and automobile, Wendell Willkie completed his tour of three New England states today and headed for Upper New York state to repeat his charges that the new deal has failed in every respect and must be ousted if democracy is to be preserved.To the many sins which the Republican presidential candidate has assigned to the new deal he added last night serious charges against President Roosevelt personally.

Campaign Trip

The president he charged, has "seriously delayed the defense program" and he charged also that the military inspection trip on which the president has started is a campaign trip under the guise of a military inspection trip... playing politics with the national defense of the United States.The candidate covered only Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, passing up Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire although the first two were the only two states in the entire nation which voted Republican in 1936.

candidate a surprisingly warm reception in the rural district, will be

WITH WILLKIE IN MASSACHUSETTS, Oct. 12.—By train and automobile, Wendell Willkie completed his tour of three New England states today and headed for Upper New York state to repeat his charges that the new deal has failed in every respect and must be ousted if democracy is to be preserved.
To the many sins which the Republican presidential candidate has assigned to the new deal he added last night serious charges against President Roosevelt personally.

Campaign Trip
The president, he charged, has "seriously delayed the defense program" and he charged also that the military inspection trip on which the president has started is a campaign trip under the guise of a military inspection trip, playing politics with the national defense of the United States.
The candidate covered only Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, passing up Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire although the first two were the only two states in the entire nation which voted Republican in 1936.

Fine Reception at Boston
Districts of Boston which consistently vote Democratic gave the candidate a surprisingly warm reception. So did the industrial city of Lynn, supposed to be friendly to the new deal and so did Hartford, Democratic strongholds of Connecticut.

Nazi Air Raids On London Pass 200 During Day

Bomb Dropped In London Street In One Of Raids Today

AIR CONFLICT IS GROWING FIERCER

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Oct. 12.—An undisclosed number of persons were killed in four new Nazi air raids on London today as at least nine bombs fell on the city, wrecking houses and burying their occupants.
Two persons were killed and ten injured when one bomb crashed in a London street. A bakery and a number of houses were demolished. Rescue crews searched in the debris for additional victims.

Over 200 Raids
Three times during the morning and early afternoon the warning sirens screamed sounding the 200th, 201st and 202nd alarms that London has experienced since the war began.
The shrieking "banshees" sent Londoners to cover as the conflict between Britain and the Reich increased in ferocity, with new R. A. F. counter-bombs and a spectacular artillery duel across the 22-mile Straits of Dover.

A few minutes after the first warning sounded four bombs dropped on a London district, severely damaging several houses and causing many casualties.

Bomb Worker's Homes
A little later came the second alarm, heralded by sporadic anti-aircraft fire against heavy formations of high-flying planes.
But a few moments later Nazi raiders bombed workmen's homes in London, dropping five bombs on one area from planes hidden by a mist

Pittsburgh and Philadelphia areas were surveyed as possible sites for the largest type airports under construction but it was not learned whether existing facilities or new fields were involved. Smaller class 3 areas surveyed included: Beaver Falls, Butler, Meadville, and New Castle.

Population Of Bucharest Astounded By Appearance Of Nazi Officers

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
BUCHAREST, Oct. 12.—While war planes roared overhead in perfect formation, a delegation of the German staff arrived in Bucharest this afternoon.

Amid mounting tension resulting from entry of Nazi forces in Rumania, and with reports current that Soviet Russia is building five air bases near the Rumanian frontier, arrival of the officers clearly indicated some sharp new change in the status of this country.
The delegation was headed by Cavalry General Hansen, who was accompanied by forty staff officers.

On Special Train
The imposing military mission arrived aboard a special train which pulled into the Mogosia station, formerly reserved for royal and governmental trains. The station was bedecked with German and Rumanian flags.

An honorary detachment of the Nazi iron guards was drawn up at the station. They saluted the German officers as the latter stepped briskly from the train and sang the Horst Wessel song in their honor.

British Bombers Keep Up Attacks

(International News Service)
LONDON, Oct. 12.—Heavy British bombing attacks, carried out in the face of foggy weather that hampered operations, were announced by the British air ministry today.

R. A. F. planes bombed targets in the Reich and along the German-held channel coast, according to a communique, which said:

"Despite adverse weather military objectives in Germany and occupied territory were attacked, including oil plants, factories and docks at Kiel, Hamburg, Bremerhaven, Wesermunde and Wilhelmshaven."

The ton, tons beat and the war drums throb and the ozone is cluttered with speeches, for the candidates speak whenever they can and wherever their dulcet voice reaches. They view with alarm as they look at the past and tell of the things that we need, and ever and always as they go around they continually drop in some seed. It's the quadrennial row and the folks are hot up as they argue on different lines, and, the candidates' speeches are heard every hour, the weather is just sixty-nine.

Three Trustees May Be Restored

Demand Made For Itemized Account Of $50,000 Annual Athletics Fund

BUSINESS SET-UP TO GET ATTENTION

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Reinstatement of three ousted Temple university trustees and a thorough investigation of the school's administrative policies and acts were predicted today following a special meeting of the university's board of trustees.

A committee of three was appointed to invite trustees Ernest Trigg, Edward G. Budd and Dr. John A. MacCallum, rejected by a majority vote a fortnight ago, to rejoin the body. Similarly, a five-man group was appointed to probe criticisms of the school's business set-up.

None of the three ousted trustees would comment on results of the board meeting, which was attended by 26 of the 36 members. It was indicated, however, that they will accept the peace overture.

Charges and counter-charges followed following revelation of the trustees' ouster. Demands were made that Charles G. Kiny give an itemized account of the $50,000 annual athletics fund, allegedly used in part to subsidize football players.

shrouding the capital. More houses were wrecked and their occupants buried in debris.

While this raid was in progress other German squadrons were reported over the northwest English coast.

London's third alarm of the day was brief and no activity occurred near the capital.

During the morning a lone German plane bombed a town on the English coast. One missile partially wrecked a small hotel.

Pierce air battles raged at an altitude of 20,000 feet over the southeast coast as British fighting planes met and turned back waves of German bombers and fighters.

The British planes dived down on the raiders, breaking up the Nazi formations and engaging them in a series of wild air combats.

Machine gun fire was audible as a few of the raiders continued toward London while R. A. F. planes chased the remainder back across the channel.

The movies should have learned from churches. They also lost out by offering games and things to hold their crowds.

lent, along with Bridgeport which has a socialist administration. Rhode Island's Democratic district in the Blackstone valley turned out friendly crowds and the candidate seemed to feel that he had made a real impression in the trio of New England states.

Goes To Albany

Today, Willkie was winding up his tour with visits to Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell, Worcester, Pittsfield and Springfield and then cutting over to Albany for a late night meeting and a broadcast to follow President Roosevelt's scheduled broadcast.

Monday, Willkie was to visit Schenectady, Amsterdam, Utica, Rome and Syracuse. Tuesday he had Rochester, Batavia and Buffalo on his schedule and then he was to turn west into Ohio again.

Willkie conducted his New England tour on the old-fashioned basis of going to the people instead of asking them to come to him. He visited the smallest hamlets and crossroads communities where people normally expect to have to go to the nearest big city to come close to excitement and if the experiment did not make voters, it appeared to make friends.

Says He's Feeling Fine

However he did it against the advice of his physician who warned him against the long drives, the afternoon and night chill in the air and the general wearing effect of 12-hour days. Willkie completed the first five days of the schedule claiming to feel fine and really looking like it and before noon with the itinerary for the next few weeks calling chiefly for train travel.

In his first scheduled speech today prepared for delivery at Lawrence, Willkie repeated substantially the speech he delivered at Providence earlier in the week in which he accused the administration of advertising a false theory that there were no new frontiers for industry.

"Since Mr. Roosevelt first told us that there was no more room for expansion in America," he said, "many revolutionary new inventions and new industries have come along. The third term candidate himself has had air conditioning installed in the white house since he made his gloomy statement."

"And still the new dealers do not learn. In an effort to cover up their own failures they keep telling us that the era of expansion in America is all over."

"No wonder your factories are empty, your relief rolls increased and men look vainly for jobs. A government that does not believe that its people can be employed will never see to it that they are employed."

"Government that breaches defeat can never win any battle against unemployment or against any foreign foe."

4-H CLUB GATHERS AT HART RESIDENCE

Friday evening members of the Union 4-H club gathered at the home of Jean Hart, Oakwood avenue, for their session.

New officers were elected: president Helen Peterson; vice president, Carrie Heckert; secretary, Donna Bartlett; news reporter, Jean Hart; game leader, Joan Hanna; song leader, Mary Reg. Bailey.

The group are on a touring trip through the Shenango Pottery, this afternoon. A hallowe'en party was planned to be held this month. Lunch was served later.

November 8, is the date chosen for the next meeting with Carrie Heckert, of McClelland avenue.

French Prisoners Seek To Enlist As Allies Of Britain

(International News Service)

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Oct. 12.—All police and troops assigned to Cayenne, the famous French prison colony in Guiana, have deserted their posts, and are attempting to enlist with General Charles De Gaulle to fight for Britain, an escaped convict from Devil's Island disclosed today.

He was Henri Roulet, leader of a group of three who made their way to St. Thomas from Cayenne.

"There is no local government at Cayenne any longer," he said. "Police and soldiers have deserted, and only prisoners remaining in custody are 300 on Devil's Island itself. All those at Cayenne have been liberated and are seeking an opportunity to leave."

Roulet said that before he left Cayenne a large number of Germans and Italians had arrived to establish some sort of a camp.

TOKYO, Oct. 12.—The American armament industry is storing large quantities of war material in Manila and Singapore, ready for immediate transfer to the Chinese government of Chiang Kai Shek with the opening of the Burma Road on Oct. 17, the Tokyo newspaper Nichi Nichi charged today.

The war material assembled at Manila, according to the newspaper, comprises tanks, trucks, anti-aircraft guns, bombing planes, and a large number of guns while large quantities of machine guns and munitions were reported stored at Singapore.

The attitude of the United States and Britain towards Japan is becoming more threatening, the newspaper pointed out.

At Dayton Tonight

Columbus, according to Democratic leaders, was waiting to give the chief executive a comparable reception through the mid-day, and tonight at Dayton Mr. Roosevelt will wind up his eighth "National Day" broadcast that has been billed as directed to the earnest attention of the whole of North Central and South America.

Theme of tonight's speech probably was dropped when the president told the Akron crowd: "You and I know the difficulties and the dangers of these times in the world. For many years we in the United States have managed to keep out of trouble in other continents and I am confident that in the future we shall be able to avoid being brought into war through attack by somebody else on us."

At Columbus Mr. Roosevelt was to tour the city and consult with officers at Fort Hayes, which is the fifth corps area headquarters for both the army and the civilian conservation corps.

At Dayton, prior to his broadcast from the special train, he will inspect the air corps Wright Field, look over the veteran's facility and have tea with James M. Cox, who headed the unsuccessful Democratic national ticket on which Mr. Roosevelt first ran in 1920.

Since leaving Washington later Thursday night, the president departed from all of the customs which prevailed during the first seven defense inspection tours, which took him variously into New England, New York state, Maryland, West Virginia, the Norfolk, Va. area and Philadelphia.

Wherever near platform appearances—to say nothing of speeches—were frowned on during earlier phases of the campaign, the president yesterday made two, including one speech. Whereas elsewhere for the most part the presidential motorcade of inspection deliberately avoided business sections and routes up to crowded, yesterday through Pennsylvania and Ohio points the show was put on with all of the hoop-in and color that is expected in a political campaign.

Center Church

Mrs. B. M. Wallace, Mrs. J. M. Houk, Mrs. B. M. Gibson, Mrs. Ellen Frew, attended the Beaver Presbyterian church, held at Ambidge on Thursday.

Ladies of the Missionary Society met recently at the home of Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Wallace, for an all-day meeting. Mrs. J. M. Houk lead the devotionals. Those taking part in the program were: Mrs. Belle Gibson, Mrs. Eva Gibson and Mrs. Charles Harzlett, Mrs. Ella McClymonds, of New Castle was a special guest.

officially unwelcome about the visit.

A Rumanian general in the colorful uniform of King Michael's army was on hand to greet the officers on behalf of Premier General Ion Antonescu, German Minister Wilhelm Fabricius, wearing a Nazi uniform, and the diplomatic envoys of Italy and Japan also were present.

The officers were taken to the Athenee Palace Hotel, where the favorite gathering-place for British diplomats and visitors. But General Hansen, accompanied by the Rumanian officer who greeted him, was taken to Premier Antonescu's house.

Hansen and the premier conversed briefly, after which Hansen went to the German legation.

Population Astounded

An official communique had been promised but had not been issued up to the middle of the afternoon, leaving the population of Bucharest astounded by the appearance of the Nazi officers.

Meanwhile, reports of Soviet air force preparations in the former eastern areas of Rumania aroused widespread speculation.

The Russian airdromes are being built in Bessarabia, which recently was ceded to the USSR by the Bucharest government, the reports stated. The airports were said to include a large base at Horecea capable of accommodating some 300 warplanes.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In Berlin authorities German quarters stated that the Reich, acting through diplomatic channels, notified Russia in advance of German plans for a military move in Rumania, in accordance with the Vienna arbitration agreement.)

It was stated on high authority, meanwhile, that the first detachment of German military "instructors" arrived in Bucharest at noon yesterday, and that air force instructor groups are due today.

PUBLIC MEETING AT COURT HOUSE

shrouding the capital. More houses were wrecked and their occupants buried in debris.

While this raid was in progress other German squadrons were reported over the northwest English coast.

London's third alarm of the day was brief and no activity occurred near the capital.

During the morning a lone German plane bombed a town on the English coast. One missile partially wrecked a small hotel.

Fierce air battles raged at an altitude of 20,000 feet over the south-east coast as British fighting planes met and turned back waves of German bombers and fighters.

The British planes dived down on the raiders, breaking up the Nazi formations and engaging them in a series of wild air combats.

Machine gun fire was audible as a few of the raiders continued toward London while R. A. F. planes chased the remainder back across the channel.

cent, along with Bridgeport which has a socialist administration. Rhode Island's Democratic district in the Blackstone valley turned out friendly crowds and the candidate seemed to feel that he had made a real impression in the trio of New England states.

Goes To Albany

Today, Willkie was winding up his tour with visits to Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell, Worcester, Pittsfield and Springfield and then cutting over to Albany for a late night meeting and a broadcast to follow President Roosevelt's scheduled broadcast.

Monday, Willkie was to visit Schenectady, Amsterdam, Utica, Rome and Syracuse. Tuesday he had Rochester, Batavia and Buffalo on his schedule and then he was to turn west into Ohio again.

Willkie conducted his New England tour on the old-fashioned basis of going to the people instead of asking them to come to him. He visited the smallest hamlets and crossroads communities where people normally expect to have to go to the nearest big city to come close to excitement and if the experiment did not make voters, it appeared to make friends.

Says He's Feeling Fine

However he did it against the advice of his physicians who warned him against the long drives, the air and the general wearing effect of 12-hour days. Willkie completed the first five days of the schedule claiming to feel fine and really looking it and today the motorcade was scheduled to end before noon with the itinerary for the next few weeks calling chiefly for train travel.

In his first scheduled speech to-day prepared for delivery at Lawrence Willkie repeated substantially the speech he delivered at Providence earlier in the week in which he accused the administration of advertising a false theory that there were no new frontiers for industry.

"Since Mr. Roosevelt first told us that there was no more room for expansion in America," he said, "many revolutionary new inventions and new industries have come along. The third term candidate himself has had air conditioning installed in the white house since he made his gloomy statement."

"And still the new dealers do not learn. In an effort to cover up their own failures they keep telling us that the era of expansion in America is all over."

"No wonder your factories are empty, your relief rolls increased and men look vainly for jobs. A government that does not believe that its people can be employed will never see to it that they are employed."

"O government that preaches defeat can never win any battle against unemployment or against any foreign foe."

Italy Ousts Him

The order claimed Matthews had "falsely stated that the Axis powers would interfere in the United States presidential elections. The dispatch tended to disturb relations between the countries."

French Prisoners Seek To Enlist As Allies Of Britain

(International News Service)

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Oct. 12.—All police and troops assigned to Cayenne, the famous French prison colony in Guiana, have deserted their posts and are attempting to enlist with General Charles De Gaulle to fight for Britain, an escaped convict from Devil's Island disclosed today.

He was Henri Roulet, leader of a group of three who made their way to St. Thomas from Cayenne.

"There is no local government at Cayenne any longer," he said.

"Police and soldiers have deserted, and only prisoners remaining in custody are 300 on Devil's Island itself. All those at Cayenne have been liberated and are seeking an opportunity to leave."

Roulet said that before he left Cayenne a large number of Germans and Italians had arrived to establish some sort of a camp.

PRESIDENT WILL COMPLETE TOUR OF OHIO TONIGHT

Lesser sized towns in both states sent hopeful thousands to the railroad yards who never saw Mr. Roosevelt at all, because he didn't appear.

At Dayton Tonight

Columbus, according to Democratic leaders, was waiting to give the chief executive a comparable reception through the mid-day, and tonight at Dayton Mr. Roosevelt will wind up his eighth "National Defense" swing with a major radio broadcast that has been billed as the whole of North Central and South America.

Theme of tonight's speech probably was dropped when the president told the Akron crowd: "You and I know the difficulties and the dangers of these times in the world. For many years we in the United States have managed to keep out of trouble in other continents and I am confident that in the future we shall be able to avoid being brought into action through attack by somebody else on us."

At Columbus Mr. Roosevelt was to tour the city and consult with officers at Fort Hayes, which is the fifth corps area headquarters for both the army and the civilian conservation corps.

To Inspect Wright Field

At Dayton, prior to his broadcast from the special train, he will inspect the air corps Wright Field, look over the veteran's facility and have tea with James M. Cox, who headed the unsuccessful Democratic national ticket on which Mr. Roosevelt first ran in 1920.

Since leaving Washington later Thursday night, the president departed from all of the customs which prevailed during the first seven defense inspection tours, which took him variously into New England, New York state, Maryland, West Virginia, the Norfolk, Va. area and Philadelphia.

Whereas rear platform appearances—say nothing of speeches—were frowned on during earlier phases of the campaign, the president yesterday made two, including one speech. Whereas elsewhere for the most part the presidential motorcade of inspection deliberately avoided preview sections and routes apt to draw crowds, yesterday through Pennsylvania and Ohio points the show was put on with all of the hoop-la and color that is expected in a political campaign.

CENTER CHURCH

Mrs. B. M. Wallace, Mrs. J. M. Houk, Mrs. B. M. Gibson, Mrs. Ellen Frew, attended the Beaver Presbyterian, held at Ambridge on Thursday.

Presidents of Group 1 of the Beaver Presbyterian met at the home of Kezia Wehausen on Thursday evening. Following devotionals, business was held with Mary Irene Taylor, presiding. The group gathered around a huge bonfire later, and enjoyed a lunch.

Ladies of the Missionary Society met recently at the home of Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Wallace, for an all-day meeting. Mrs. J. M. Houk lead the devotionals. Those taking part in the program were: Mrs. Belle Gibson, Mrs. Eva Gibson and Mrs. Charles Hartzell, Mrs. Ella McGlymonds, of New Castle was a special guest.

E. L. Guy of Gary, Ind., spent a week here visiting relatives.

Campaign Chairmen Dingley said every division knows what it has to do and will be "in full operation" Monday.

Among the players who will contribute talent at the mass meeting are Mrs. John McIlwraith, Miss Dorothy Young, Miss Margaret Toepfer, Miss Mildred Burleson, Miss Mettie Round, Mrs. Mary Meeks, Mrs. James R. day and their pleasure at being permitted to meet so many at close range.

Miss Martha Bigley, county chairman of the council, presided. She introduced Miss Runyan and the local candidates. Pep singing was directed by Mrs. James A. Rugh accompanied by Mrs. R. D. Rosenberger.

Telegram From Willkie

Miss Bigley then introduced Captain Roger W. Rowland, county chairman of the Republican party, and he spoke briefly. Captain Rowland then read a telegram from Wendell Willkie, candidate of the party for president, to Mayor Charles B. Mayne, thanking him for having been at meeting at the Pennsylvania Station some days ago when Mr. Willkie spoke. The telegram follows:

Providence, R. I.
Oct. 10, 1940.

The Hon. Charles B. Mayne, Mayor of New Castle, Penna.

I have just learned that you left a hospital bed to attend the meeting at Pennsylvania Station in New Castle when I was there. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate your coming under such circumstances, and I do hope you suffered no ill effects. It was a fine meeting and your presence contributed a great deal. Warmest personal regards.

WENDELL WILLKIE.

Dollar Certificates

The appointment of Mrs. H. L. Gormley as director of the Dollar

Certificate club was announced and Mrs. Gormley acknowledged an introduction.

From the luncheon most of the crowd went down to the Castleton hotel where several hundred more joined in the reception to the candidates. From three thirty to five o'clock, the reception was in progress in the ballroom and through it the candidates were enabled to meet many hundreds of voters personally.

leaving the population of Bucharest astounded by the appearance of the Nazi officers.

Meanwhile, reports of Soviet air force preparations in the former eastern areas of Rumania aroused widespread speculation.

The Russian airdromes are being built in Bessarabia, which recently was ceded to the USSR by the Bucharest government, the reports stated. The airports were said to include a large base at Horecea capable of accommodating some 300 warplanes.

EDITOR'S NOTE: In Berlin authoritative German quarters stated that the Reich, acting through diplomatic channels, notified Russia in advance of German plans for a military move in Rumania, in accordance with the Vienna arbitration agreement.

It was stated on high authority, meanwhile, that the first detachment of German military "instructors" arrived in Bucharest at noon yesterday and that air force instructor groups are due today.

officially unwelcome about the visit. A Rumanian general in the colorful uniform of King Michael's army was on hand to greet the officers on behalf of Premier General Ion Antonescu. German Minister Wilhelm Fabricius, wearing a Nazi uniform, and the diplomatic envoys of Italy and Japan also were present.

The officers were taken to the Athene Palace Hotel, once the favorite gathering-place for British diplomats and visitors. But General Hansen, accompanied by the Rumanian officer who greeted him, was taken to Premier Antonescu's house.

Hansen and the premier conversed briefly, after which Hansen went to the German legation.

An official communique had been promised but had not been issued up to the middle of the afternoon, leaving the population of Bucharest astounded by the appearance of the Nazi officers.

SARAH L. SHEEHY WEDS CLARENCE YOHIO

In the Croton Methodist church this morning, Miss Sarah Lenore Sheehy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sheehy of West Washington street, became the bride of Clarence Robert Yohio, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Yohio, of New Castle, R. D. 1.

The vows were exchanged at 10 o'clock before Rev. J. A. Cousins, pastor with friends and relatives viewing the ceremony.

Preceding the wedding service Mrs. Charles Campbell, organist, played a group of nuptial selections which were favorites of the couple. The bride was lovely in a duchesse satin gown, princess style, with a scalloped neckline, and long tight sleeves. Her finger tip veil was caught in a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums, pom poms and orchids.

Minta Sheehy, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor, and was attired in blue brocade tulle. Another sister, Hazel Sheehy, as bridesmaid, wore a pink frock identical to that worn by the maid of honor. Their corsages were of roses and fall flowers.

John Yohio, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers included Robert Sheehy and Samuel Kennedy.

THE BOMBING OF ST. PAUL'S

OLD ST. PAUL'S was destroyed in the great fire of London nearly 300 years ago. Its successor, erected on the ruins of the old, still stands, but who can tell for how long? For the German bomb which smashed its magnificent high altar to pieces barely missed the mighty dome which for centuries has been not only the most distinctive landmark but the symbol of the world's largest city.

But St. Paul's, which as London's cathedral of the Church of England outranks ecclesiastically Westminster Abbey, possesses much more than architectural claims to greatness. It is particularly regarded as the masterpiece of Christopher Wren. It is particularly the sepulchre of Britain's great warriors and painters. The tombs of Wellington and Nelson are there and it is at St. Paul's that the services of thanksgiving for the nation's victories are held.

The dome of St. Paul's may topple from its lofty throne, but the spirit of the military and naval heroes who sleep beneath its shade seems to have been transmitted to their successors, now facing an emergency such as even Nelson and Wellington never knew.

GOOD MANNERS RETURN

A while back—not so far back either—there was a disposition among educators to allow the largest possible measure of liberty to children in the matter of personal conduct in order to create in them a desirable spirit of independence and initiative.

Conservative observers of that trend in pedagogy expressed doubts from the beginning with respect to its wisdom and the pendulum has now swung around to a different viewpoint. College heads and public school principals are this year pleading for better manners in the classrooms, on the playgrounds, at home and in public places. Such an attitude must naturally be founded on thoughtfulness for others.

There is scarcely any doubt that more may be accomplished toward subsequent success in life by enforcement of discipline among the young than by encouraging them to avoid those restraints which spell good manners. It is one thing, of course, to be craven and cowardly and quite another thing to mingle with one's fellows, and especially one's elders, on the basis of respect for the ordinary courtesies of life.

WHAT IS CONGRESS FOR?

With adjournment of Congress definitely out of the picture, some members want a recess until November 18, while others urge a series of three-day recesses.

The longer continuous vacation should not be considered for a moment. It is reported that if it's not voted, Democratic leaders will refuse to agree to the semi-weekly recesses, thus making Congress remain constantly on the job.

The country will see no objection to that. On the contrary, it would welcome such a decision. "The big thing," says Representative Martin, "is to keep this Congress in session to act if the occasion demands it."

Mr. Martin is right. No one can tell what emergency may arise. In the present state of affairs it would be as illogical for Congress to absent itself as for a city fire department to leave town.

It should impose no undue hardship on Congress to stick to its post. But, even if it did, it would involve no greater sacrifice than hundreds of thousands of good citizens are preparing to make for their country's welfare.

WILLIAM PENN'S EXAMPLE

In these worrisome times it should help Americans to think about a man whose part in American history always suggests peace. William Penn was born 296 years ago, on October 14, 1644.

Penn was a man who was terrifically intense about what he believed. He lived in the previous storm period of human emotionalism corresponding to that which the world is trying to weather today. Just now the wholesale murder program features "ideology," a word pretty accurately defined in the dictionary as "visionary speculation; idle theorizing." In Penn's day they were imprisoning and hanging and even burning at the stake those whose too vigorous ideology was religion.

Penn, being a man of heroic mold, thought it his duty to oppose the established church. He was in line for a soft time if his sense of duty had been a little less tense. He was a rich man's son and his father encouraged him to forget religion and have a good time. He sent William Penn to Paris, where in those days—as until recently—a good time was to be had. But the young man decided he could get more satisfaction by taking the hard way.

So he came home to England, made himself conspicuous by saying "there" and "thou" and was whipped and tossed into prison on various occasions. His money helped him out and gave him the inspiration to make a refuge for Quakers in the New World. The King of England gave him a grant of land and told him to go to America and make his own laws. He went, and made a constitution which still is regarded as one of the most liberal charters ever framed for the self-government of a people.

While the other colonies were cheating the Indians and chasing them from their lands, Penn made a treaty with them—which was so just that it brought to the Pennsylvanians almost perpetual peace with the aborigines. And liberty and justice brought their reward, for the city of Brotherly Love soon became the richest and most prosperous place in the country. Much might be learned from the life of William Penn.

Agents for the sideshows, on the lookout for the bizarre, would like to get in touch with a voter whose support was won by a loud-speaker truck.

Mussolini has ordered Italian men to discard their trousers and wear shorts to save cloth. The British now have 11 Duce's pants and may soon get his shirt.

A Chicago style show brought together creations originating in such quarters as El Paso, the Utah hinterland and Terre Haute. None, though, from Paris, Texas.

Checking up on the prophets: It was on April 3, 1940, at El Paso, that Connie Mack told a newsman, "The Yankees will finish in third place in the American League."

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

NEVER LET CHILD HEAR CRITICISMS

You take five-year-old Clarice to your doctor for a check up on her physical condition. Then right before the child, perhaps, you tell him: "Clarice doesn't eat her cooked cereal, nor her vegetables; and she doesn't drink enough milk, Doctor. She wants to eat more meat and potatoes, more bread and jam. And she gets very naughty, too, sometimes, say, ugly things to her mother, and doesn't mind. Last night she got so mad she lay down on the floor and kicked and screamed and bumped her head."

By this time Clarice has probably concluded that she is, "some youngster."

Be that doctor wise, he will divert you from discussing the behavior of Clarice in the presence of her mother. He will find amusement for her in the outer office and discuss such matters in private. No, it's not you I am talking about; some other mother!

Don't Spoil It

When your friends drop in at home and pay a compliment to Clarice you can spoil it all by adding: "But she is a naughty girl sometimes. You should have seen her last night." It must be that other mother still that I am talking about.

I wish we might persuade you not to discuss Clarice's bad conduct to others in her hearing.

School principals often hear the mother tell about her child's shortcomings right before the alleged delinquent. Other mothers also may be sitting near listening.

When we are wiser in dealing with our children we so manage ourselves that everything we do and say in relation to them is for the definite purpose of living more happily with them. The trouble is we don't act reasonably most of the time. We just act about as our feelings prompt us. Then we think afterwards. But under the guise of reasoning we may fool ourselves into believing that we had acted wisely.

What a lot of effort we expend in attempting to justify our acts to both ourselves and others.

We are all like that to some degree and have been guilty of the faults we so easily find in others. Ours not to condemn but to describe. I do believe that if we reflect often on ourselves in relation to our children we might actually find ourselves living happier with them.

Let us all, while keeping our attention on the many good things that we do, and celebrate more often our successes.

A list of books and pamphlets to help parents grow to be happier and more efficient parents may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. Also a page on prevention and correction of thumb-sucking.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Should a parent talk of the child's shortcomings in the presence of him and a guest?

A. No; and almost never before the doctor or school principal. Bringing might be just as bad.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

BETTER LAWYERS BETTER JUDGES

In these United States there are a great many lawyers and these lawyers are not by any means all good lawyers. They are not all honest lawyers. As a matter of fact the stunts that are constantly thrown at the legal profession is the result of the profession's having too many dishonest lawyers. From the body of lawyers are chosen judges and too often a poor lawyer becomes a judge because he is a good politician and a very indifferent lawyer with a very indifferent income. The cure for the profession lies with the profession itself.

The American Bar Association has just finished another meeting and President Beardsley in his address to the present compared the duty of the Bar today with that which was described ten years ago by Chief Justice Hughes, when he declared that "the greatest need in this country today is the improvement in the administration of justice."

Now the administration of justice is just another name for the services rendered to the American people by lawyers and judges in the courts and in their offices. The problems of today are more complex and more difficult than the problems of ten years ago. The administrative machinery, both state and federal has increased tremendously, and the laws made by the legislators of the various states, to say nothing of the laws passed by the Congress of the United States, multiplied to such an extent that the alleged "Philadelphia lawyer" is often stumped.

President Beardsley said that we all know that there are defects and vital defects in the administration of justice, which must be remedied. The hardships the inequality and the defeat of justice in an individual case which result from such defects can do more to undermine the "way of life" which we and our forefathers have known than any amount of conscious propaganda from a foreign source. No lawyer worthy of the name can doubt that the administration of justice is "the foundation of our democratic institutions."

There are about 160,000 members of the American Bar Association presumed to be representatives of the legal profession in these United States. Unquestionably it is within the power of these 160,000 men to provide enlightened leadership to the American people to the end that they may protect, strengthen and preserve the Union.

And the little girl said: "Mama, do you think it is good form to stare at folks while they are eating?"

We did not hear how the mother answered.

ALWAYS A GENTLEMAN
At Oxford University, England, they preserve the honor system at all costs. There, a gentleman's word is never doubted, regardless of the situations which may arise. One morning, a student was called to the Dean's office and informed that he had been seen on several occasions with a young lady after the prescribed hours.

Very calmly, the student said, "But that girl is my sister."

The Dean, aghast, replied, "Your sister? Why that girl is known as a notorious rascal."

"Yes, sir," the student replied, maintaining his serenity, "it causes mother and me a great deal of worry."

"Poor old Bill. He's so short-sighted he's working himself to death."

"Well, he can't see when the boss ain't looking. So 'e 'as to keep on shoveling all the time."

THE GUM-CHewing GIRL AND THE CUD-CHewing COW
The gum-chewing girl and the cud-chewing cow are sometimes alike, yet different somehow.

What is it? Oh, yes, we see it all now.

It's the thoughtful look on the face of the cow.

While Turtle Creek firemen were out answering an alarm recently, a skunk walked in and took possession of the fire station. It was finally gotten out by a brave policeman, who donned a rubber coat, rubber boots, and gas mask. It is claimed that the odor still lingers, however.

Better not depend on that pledge not to fight outside this hemisphere. Letting the war come to you is too hard on real estate values.

The doctor met Mrs. Jones on the street.

"How is your husband now?" he asked. "Did you give him the sleeping potion?"

"Yes," she replied. "You told me to give him the amount I could get on a quarter, but as I didn't have any, I used twenty-five pennies, and he's been asleep now for four days."

Correct this sentence: "Before deciding for or against Roosevelt," said the voter, "I shall study and analyze all of his official acts."

You get little credit for generosity. If you make $50 a week and give $25 to the poor, people say: "It doesn't hurt him; he's rich."

All entertainment and instruction is provided for limited groups. What seems great stuff to another crowd seems dull or silly to us.

Ayres Has Same Job As In Last War
Conscribed As Chief Statistician
More Of Economist Than Military Man

By CHARLES F. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Col. Leonard P. Ayres, recently conscripted by the government as its chief statistician in connection with its defensive preparedness program, is better known as an economist than as a military man. Nevertheless, he did do government statistics for Uncle Sam during the last World War, and was drafted for the same job this time because his work was so capable in that era.

Since then he's been editor of the Cleveland Trust company's bulletin, dealing with business conditions, of the moment and in prospect. The company gave him a leave of absence for his present duty.

Well, the single axera's philosophy is altogether different from Colonel Ayres' and Pete wholeheartedly disapproved of the latter. He said the colonel's commercial forecasts were pure guesswork—not a bit of science about 'em. "Why, if I were mayor of this town," he told me, the last time I saw him, "I'd have that chap run out of it, as a fortune teller."

CRANKMIRE ON SPENDING

"Now when it comes to spending," said old Crankmire with a grin.

"Most anyone can do it if you'll let him have the tin."

Most anyone can do it till his pocketbook gives out. You needn't search for spenders for they're everywhere about.

The knack of spending money no one ever seems to learn.

Hence the courts is ten to squander to the one who wants to earn.

"There never was a family without its spending few."

The uncles and the cousins and the wife's relations, too.

A brother or a sister—not a group so large or small.

Without several smiling members, who can't learn to save at all.

And the dullest one among them—let the simple truth be penned—

Given any sum of money could and would proceed to spend.

"It takes character and courage and a sense of values true."

To be both an honest earner and a careful saver, too.

It takes something known as judgment to say 'no' to every friend.

And your family must have taught you it's the foolish ones who spend.

The pockets of the foolish get the holes the dollars burn.

But to earn them and to save them—that's the trick that's hard to learn.

What Noted People Say

NEW YORK.—Van Wyck Brooks assails the "defeatist" attitude of modern writers:

"I see on all sides a hunger for affirmations, for a world without confusion, waste or groping, a world that is full of order and purpose, and for ourselves in America, a chance to build it."

WASHINGTON.—Spencer, Rayburn explains the great number of congressional "French leaves":

"This is the kind of a situation that congress gets into when its business is completed and the members know it."

NEW YORK.—Banker Winthrop W. Aldrich finds modern business men have a changed attitude:

"A great American business enterprise can be run today only by men who put obligation to the public above anything else."

LONDON.—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison defies Hitler's bombers:

"We're not going to surrender because that would mean for many years something much more terrible than what is now going on."

Bible Thought For Today

The Great Game Of Politics

A Foul Blow

NEW YORK, Oct. 12. REGARDLESS of their party affiliations and personal predilections, men who deplore racial prejudice and despise religious intolerance are shocked as well as apprehensive at the kind of thing now being done in New York to array the big Jewish vote of the State—in excess of 900,000—against Mr. Willie on the ground that the Germany-Italy-Japan Axis is interested in this campaign and anxious for the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt.

THE inference, of course, is that the opponent of Mr. Roosevelt is a candidate of the dictators, and a calculated attempt to create that impression among the ignorant and Jewish vote is being engineered and fostered by various ardent third-termers, some of whom are active in the management of the campaign and closely affiliated with the Administration. It is, of course, being done under cover and surface denials are ready and vigorous. It is a fact, and those who know it are going on here regarding it as the most degraded and dangerous campaign move which has taken place in a good many years.

THERE is, of course, deep resentment among many intelligent Jews, who feel that a cruel and criminal thing is being done in misleading unthinking and credulous people. But the effect upon these cannot be discounted. It is the chief topic of conversation among the practical politicians in both camps at this time. While Mr. Roosevelt and his national chairman, Mr. Eddie Flynn, carefully keep themselves in position to repudiate all personal responsibility for—or even knowledge of—the work being done for the third-term candidacy along these lines, the whole effort is directed around the President and various conspicuous third-term spokesmen.

APPARENTLY, the start of this movement to make Mr. Willie seem pro-Hitler and anti-Semitic was Mr. Henry Wallace's speech of acceptance, in which he tried to brand the Republicans as the "appeasement" party. Its speed was accelerated by Governor Lehman, whose speech—reportedly written by Mr. Tommy Corcoran—brought a heated and indignant comment from Mr. Willie, who referred to it as false, cowardly and malicious. But the real impetus was given by Mr. Roosevelt himself at his recent White House press conference when, in reply to a planted question from one of his newspaper stooges, he tried to pin the Hitler tag on his opponent.

THE whole thing was cleverly staged, and that it was deliberate no one disputes, and it has been branded by some of the President's party as a "foul blow" at Mr. Willie, who referred to it as false, cowardly and malicious. But the real impetus was given by Mr. Roosevelt himself at his recent White House press conference when, in reply to a planted question from one of his newspaper stooges, he tried to pin the Hitler tag on his opponent.

But the real impetus was given by Mr. Roosevelt himself at his recent White House press conference when, in reply to a planted question from one of his newspaper stooges, he tried to pin the Hitler tag on his opponent.

THOUGHTFUL leaders of the Jewish people here are tremendously concerned over the situation. For one thing, they know that the insinuations against Mr. Willie are wholly false. They know that Mr. Willie is as strongly anti-Hitler and pro-British as Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Wallace or Governor Lehman. They subscribe, too, to the argument that if Hitler and his allies had any interest in this campaign, logic would put them on the side of Mr. Roosevelt, rather than on that of Mr. Willie, on the ground that the latter could do a far more effective job of preparing the country for war.

TO them it seems a dreadful thing to drag an issue such as this into the campaign—to drag it in needlessly and without any justification whatever. They know that it does a fine man a grave injustice and that it is as foul a blow as has been struck. For these reasons, and because so many of their people are being misled, Jewish leaders here are revolted at what is going on. There is another and a deeper reason why they look with dread upon the success which seems to be attending these tactics.

THEY know well that if through such an appeal to prejudice the Jews form themselves into a racial political group, instead of voting as individual American citizens, the inevitable and unavoidable result will be the formation of other racial and religious groups of a hostile nature. Nothing, they think, could more acutely promote and increase anti-Semitism in this country than the effort to solidify the Jewish vote for Mr. Roosevelt now being made in New York. The forces of intolerance rejoice at the attempt; the forces of tolerance are dismayed.

No man has a right to be a cynic until the evidence is all in; say, at the age of 115.

THE BOMBING OF ST. PAUL'S

OLD ST. PAUL'S was destroyed in the great fire of London nearly 300 years ago. Its successor, erected on the ruins of the old, still stands, but who can tell for how long? For the German bomb which smashed its magnificent high altar to pieces barely missed the mighty dome which for centuries has been not only the most distinctive landmark but the symbol of the world's largest city.

But St. Paul's, which as London's cathedral of the Church of England outranks ecclesiastically Westminster Abbey, possesses much more than architectural claims to greatness, although regarded as the masterpiece of Christopher Wren. It is particularly the sepulchre of Britain's great warriors and painters. The tombs of Wellington and Nelson are there and it is at St. Paul's that the services of thanksgiving for the nation's victories are held.

The dome of St. Paul's may topple from its lofty throne, but the spirit of the military and naval heroes who sleep beneath its shade seems to have been transmitted to their successors, now facing an emergency such as even Nelson and Wellington never knew.

GOOD MANNERS RETURN

A while back—not so far back either—there was a disposition among educators to allow the largest possible measure of liberty to children in the matter of personal conduct in order to create in them a desirable spirit of independence and initiative.

Conservative observers of that trend in pedagogy expressed doubts from the beginning with respect to its wisdom and the pendulum has now swung around to a different viewpoint. College heads and public school principals are this year pleading for better manners in the classrooms, on the playgrounds, at home and in public places. Such an attitude must naturally be founded on thoughtfulness for others.

There is scarcely any doubt that more may be accomplished toward subsequent success in life by enforcement of discipline among the young than by encouraging them to avoid those restraints which spell good manners. It is one thing, of course, to be craven and cowardly and quite another thing to mingle with one's fellows, and especially one's elders, on the basis of respect for the ordinary courtesies of life.

WHAT IS CONGRESS FOR?

With adjournment of Congress definitely out of the picture, some members want a recess until November 18, while others urge a series of three-day recesses.

The longer continuous vacation should not be considered for a moment. It is reported that if it's not voted, Democratic leaders will refuse to agree to the semi-weekly recesses, thus making Congress remain constantly on the job.

The country will see no objection to that. On the contrary, it would welcome such a decision. "The big thing," says Representative Martin, "is to keep this Congress in session to act if the occasion demands it."

Mr. Martin is right. No one can tell what emergency may arise.
In the present state of affairs it would be as illogical for Congress to absent itself as for a city fire department to leave town.

It should impose no undue hardship on Congress to stick to its post. But, even if it did, it would involve no greater sacrifice than hundreds of thousands of good citizens are preparing to make for their country's welfare.

WILLIAM PENN'S EXAMPLE

In these worrisome times it should help Americans to think about a man whose part in American history always suggests peace. William Penn was born 296 years ago, on October 14, 1644.

Penn was a man who was terrifically intense about what he believed. He lived in the previous storm period of human emotionalism responding to that which the world is trying to weather today. Just now the wholesale murder program features "ideology," a word pretty accurately defined in the dictionary as "visionary speculation; idle theorizing." In Penn's day they were imprisoning and hanging and even burning at the stake those whose too vigorous ideology was religion.

Penn, being a man of heroic mold, thought it his duty to oppose the established church. He was in line for a soft time if his sense of duty had been a little less tense. He was a rich man's son and his father encouraged him to forget religion and have a good time. He sent William Penn to Paris, where in those days—as until recently—a good time was to be had. But the young man decided he could get more satisfaction by taking the hard way.

So he came home to England, made himself conspicuous by saying "thee" and "thou" and was whipped and tossed into prison on various occasions. His money helped him out and gave him the inspiration to make a refuge for Quakers in the New World. The King of England gave him a grant of land and told him to go to America and make his own laws. He went, and made a constitution which still is regarded as one of the most liberal charters ever framed for the self-government of a people.

While the other colonies were cheating the Indians and chasing them from their lands, Penn made a treaty with them which was so just that it brought to the Pennsylvanians almost perpetual peace with the aborigines. And liberty and justice brought their reward, for the city of Brotherly Love soon became the richest and most prosperous place in the country. Much might be learned from the life of William Penn.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

NEVER LET CHILD HEAR CRITICISMS

You take five-year-old Clarice to your doctor for a check up on her physical condition. Then right before the child, perhaps, you tell him:
"Clarice doesn't eat her cooked cereal, nor her vegetables; and she doesn't drink enough milk. Doctor, She wants to eat more meat and potatoes, more bread and jam.
And she gets very naughty, too, sometimes, says ugly things to her mother, and doesn't mind. Last night she got so mad she lay down on the floor and kicked and screamed and bumped her head."

By this time Clarice has probably concluded that she is "some younger."

Be that doctor wise, he will divert you from discussing the behavior of Clarice in her presence. He will find amusement for her in the outer office and discuss such matters in private. No, it's not you I am talking about; some other mother!

Don't Spoil It
When your friends drop in at home and pay a compliment to Clarice you can spoil it all by adding, "But she is a naughty girl sometimes. You should have seen her last night. . . . It must be that other mother still that I am talking about."

I wish we might persuade you not to discuss Clarice's bad conduct to others in her hearing.

School principals often hear the mother tell about her child's shortcomings right before the alleged relinquish. Other mothers also may be sitting near listening.

When we are wiser in dealing with our children we so manage ourselves that everything we do and say in relation to them is for the definite purpose of living more happily with them. The trouble is we don't act reasonably most of the time. We just act about as our feelings prompt us. Then we think afterwards. But under the guise of reasoning we may fool ourselves into believing that we had acted wisely.
What a lot of effort we expend in attempting to justify our acts to both ourselves and others.

Nobody Faultless
We are all like that to some degree and have been guilty of the faults we so easily find in others.
Ours not to condemn but to describe. Do believe that if we reflect often on ourselves in relation to our children we might actually find ourselves living happier with them.
Let us all the while keep our attention on the many good things that we do, and celebrate more often our successes.

A list of books and pamphlets to help parents grow to be happier and more efficient parents may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. Also a page on prevention and correction of thumb-sucking.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Should a parent talk of the child's shortcomings in the presence of him and a guest?

A. No; and almost never before the doctor or school principal. Bragging might be just as bad.

Better Lawyers Better Judges
In these United States there are a great many lawyers and these lawyers are not by any means all good lawyers. They are not all honest lawyers. As a matter of fact the slurs that are constantly thrown at the legal profession is the result of the profession harboring too many dishonest lawyers. From the body of lawyers are chosen judges and too often a poor lawyer becomes a judge because he is a good politician and a very indifferent lawyer with a very indifferent income. The cure for the profession lies with the profession itself.

The American Bar Association has just finished another meeting and President Beardsley of the Association in his address to the members present compared the duty of the Bar today with that which was described ten years ago by Chief Justice Hughes, when he declared that "the greatest need in this country today is the improvement in the administration of justice."

Now the administration of justice is just another name for the services rendered to the American people by lawyers and judges in the courts and in their offices. The problems of today are more complex and more difficult than the problems of ten years ago. The administrative machinery, both state and federal has increased tremendously, and the laws made by the legislators of the various states, to say nothing of the laws passed by the Congress of the Union, have multiplied to such an extent that the alleged "Philadelphia lawyer" is often stumped.

President Beardsley said that we all know that there are defects and vital defects in the administration of justice, which must be remedied.
The hardships, the inequity and the defeat of justice in an individual case which result from such defects can do more to undermine the "way of life" which we and our forefathers have known than any amount of conscious propaganda from a foreign source. No lawyer worthy of the name can doubt that the administration of justice is "the foundation of our democratic institutions."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:26. Sun rises tomorrow 6:08.

An incurable desire to travel is classified by medical science under the name of somatosthenia. Just think of all the hoboes who have lived in this country, who never knew what ailed them, and wouldn't have been able to tell you if they did.

SLOW GHOST
Two colored boys were having an argument about ghosts. One of them claimed to have seen a ghost the night before.

And what was this here ghos-t? "You are holding your fork in the wrong way. It isn't good form to do it that way."

And the little girl said: "Mama, do you think it is good form to stare at folks while they are eating?"

We did not hear how the mother answered.

People hooted at first; but if Fifth Columnists aren't exposed, patriots may yet long for the good old Dies.

If the crime is conspicuously vile,
look for a man who has been pardoned once and paroled three times.

The response to the new "I want to be a captain" organization has been overwhelming. It seems like every youth of military age wants to be a captain. When one of the boys at The News was in the army during the World War, he says every man in his company had the same idea, but the bird who was captain soon shook it out of them with a little well-placed discipline.

Free land. One where men without honest incomes live in luxury and no official is suspicious enough to investigate.

You can now buy pretty silk "God Bless America" shields and banners to show your patriotism. The Japs make them.

What are the prices of the seats, mister?
"Front seats, fifty cents; back seats, twenty-five cents; programs, five cents."
"I'll sit on a program, please."

Why expect anybody to enclose a stamp for your reply? Great men don't, and isn't this a land of equality?

In politics as in war, nothing succeeds like success. If you quit attacking and begin to defend yourself, you're a goner.

Ninety-five tons of soil blows away every second in this country a news note informs us. A great deal of it lands in the human eye, it would seem from experiences we have had on windy days. And right at the most inopportune moments, too.

Count Pulaski's Memory Is Honored On Friday

The memory of Count Casimir Pulaski, great Polish Hero of the American Revolution was celebrated Friday over the United States. Both nationally and in the State October 11 is set aside as Pulaski Day. Casimir Pulaski died on Oct. 11, 1779 aboard the "Wasp" during the battle of Savannah, Ga.

Among the many lovers of liberty, men from various lands and different nations who came here to sacrifice their lives and their fortunes to its cause, so that this country of ours might secure its independence—was Casimir Pulaski, also known as Kazimierz Pulaski. Pulaski was a true representative of Polish nobility. Oldest son of Count Joseph Pulaski, born in Poland, March 4, 1748—at a time when that nation showed traces of declining era. A weak king held the throne. Not long afterwards an insurrection broke out and Count Joseph Pulaski was one of his organizers. Casimir Pulaski at that time was a young officer and fought at his father's side. His fame as a cavalry leader spread throughout Europe. In 1770 with a small contingent he overcame the Russian army lifted the siege and liberated the ancient fortress. This was his last great exploit upon Polish soil. There were other combats but none comparable to it.

Poland was first dissectioned in 1772 and later lost all her independence. After the insurrection in which the calamity ended, Pulaski fled to Turkey where he tried to interest the government in Poland's misfortunes, and begged them to start a new war with Russia, who took a large part of Poland. In 1775 Pulaski went to Paris where he came in contact with Silas Deane, American Representative and with Benjamin Franklin. From them he learned of the American Revolution. The news enthused him. He saw an opportunity to fight for an ideal that dominated his life. In 1777 Franklin wrote a letter to George Washington informing him of Pulaski's bravery for his country. He arrived in Boston, July 1777 and met Washington the following month. Washington in his letter to John Hancock suggested that Pulaski be made commander of an army. Since it was not granted, Pulaski joined

COUNT CASIMIER PULASKI

Washington's army as a volunteer. He fought at the Battle of Brandywine and several others, as a commander of the army. During days of torture, Washington's army was starving, and Pulaski went to get supplies. In the end Pulaski was granted permission to organize an army of his own. In autumn of 1779 Pulaski joined Gen. Lincoln and planned to attack Savannah, October 8, he attacked the British front. It was at this battle that Pulaski was wounded severely. Two days later, October 11, while on board the brig "Wasp" leaving Savannah harbor on the way to Charleston, he died. According to his friend and companion in arms, Captain Paul Bentalou, the corpse was buried at sea.

Thus ended the life of one who was the embodiment of the best tradition of Polish chivalry. He formed a worthy member of the balant band of men who came to help the colonists in their hour of need. He placed implicit faith in their cause and paid the supreme sacrifice for its realization. He did not live to see the attainment of their goal, nor perhaps did he visualize the rise of the mighty Republic. But he died serene and happy in the thought that he struggled and sacrificed for the cause of liberty. But it is this lifelong exertion that ennobled his efforts and enshrined his name. Holding a prominent place in the niche of fame in his native land, he is assured of even greater glory in these U. S. that he helped to create. He shall be ever known as the founder of American cavalry and as the intrepid warrior who twice saved Washington's Army from disruption. And among the patriots of all nations he shall ever be remembered as the hero of two Hemispheres.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SQUINT

If radio and movie censorship is necessary, then I think some of it should be applied to programs and pictures in which strabismic, crossed eyes and such abnormalities are made to appear funny. I do not see anything funny about crossed eyes. To me when a child has this abnormality, it is a very sad matter, though I know that today many such cases can be corrected and cured.

There are two common types of squint—paralytic and concomitant. In the first type you don't notice anything wrong when the child is looking straight ahead, but when he directs his glance to one side, one eye remains looking straight ahead, or turns only slightly. In concomitant squint, the eyes are fixed at different angles and move in unison. That is, when looking straight ahead, one eye is normal, the other is turned either inward or outward. The one eye is always squinted, or out of line with the normal eye, yet they move together.

Most parents will do anything in the world to have this condition corrected in a child, for few physical handicaps will be so keenly felt by a child, and few will tangle him up psychologically, attract to him the ridicule of his playmates and cause him to develop such a well rounded feeling of inferiority. Concomitant squint, almost always makes its appearance in infancy or childhood. If it is treated promptly, chances are all in favor of a complete recovery. But, if treatment is long delayed, or if for some reason the correct treatment isn't given, then there is the likelihood the unfortunate child will go through life with the abnormality.

We still don't know the actual cause of squint. Of the many theories advanced, none is completely satisfactory. In many cases I have seen, the parents first noticed the development of the trouble following some such disease as whooping cough or measles. As a result there are lots of parents who blame the infectious disease for the eye abnormality. To some extent this may be true. That is, a child whose muscular eye balance is weak, may have it upset by the shock of one of these diseases. But in such a case there must have been a weakness, a potential squint in the first place.

The country doctor has an exceptionally good chance to study the influence of heredity. There is a family and very often I can give the parents timely forewarning of what to expect. I did this once and it caused me a peck of trouble, because the parents thought I was "hexing" their child when I warned them to watch for crossed eyes. Unfortunately for me—and the child, it did develop squint and the father and mother still blame me.

Park Squirrels Feast On Acorns

Acorns are quite plentiful on the oak trees at Gaston Park, and the squirrels are busy feeding on them. As a rule, the fox and grey squirrels get slim provisions throughout the summer, Owen Fox states, living on roots, small ground vegetation, also occasionally young bird-life.

The fox and grey squirrels consume many acorns at this time of the year, the oils in which, and the wild nuts, help them put on their winter coat, the better to withstand the stormy blasts that are ahead.

NEW CASTLE DEFEATS MCKEESPORT 34 TO 12

Ciazza And Lee Local Standouts

New Castle High Hangs Up Fifth Win Of Year; Crowd Thrills As Brletic Of McKeesport Races 95 Yards After Taking Kickoff; Ciazza Scores Three Times; Lee Tallies Twice; Locals Ahead In First Downs 10 To 5; Crowd Of Between 6,000 And 7,000 At Game.

Taggart stadium last night before a crowd of between 6,000 and 7,000 fans. It was New Castle's fifth win of the current season.

If the grid lovers went to the game looking for thrills the schoolboys supplied them with plenty. The game goes down as one of the most breath-taking played here in years. There were no dull moments. Sammy Ciazza, just four plays after the opening kickoff, raced 31 yards for the first New Castle touchdown, and the big crowd had an inkling of what was to come.

Packed With Thrills
This was a Class AA battle. It marked New Castle's second Class AA victory, only the Butler high team having won what would otherwise be a perfect record to date. The McKeesport Tigers gave all they had, they used every play that they had in the bag, but the New Castle deception and tricky ball handling was too much for them. The blocking of the New Castle team was close to perfect.

In the matter of first downs New Castle had the better of it, registering 10 to 5 for the Allegheny Countians. It was the widest open contest seen in many a moon. There was none of this do-or-die stand at the goal line. All of the touchdowns were of the thrill-producing variety.

As mentioned above McKeesport kicked off to New Castle to start the game and then without giving up the ball, the "Red Hurricanes" were over the goal line with Sammy Ciazza lugging the ball. The majority of the first period after the New Castle marker was played in mid-field with both sides kicking several times.

Ciazza Tallies Again
The start of the second period found McKeesport with the ball on their own 46-yard line. Peters and McClelland entered the game, the former going into the New Castle line, and the latter to the visitors' backfield. McClelland, a colored speedster, picked up 24 yards right off the bat, but the Tigers were off-side and drew a five-yard penalty. Jakomas punted out of bounds on the New Castle 43.

Ciazza made a first down on the Tigers 27-yard line, for a 31-yard gain, taking the ball on a reverse play. Lee passed, and it was taken by Kerr of the visiting team on the McKeesport 25-yard line. The McKeesport team drew a 15-yard penalty for holding and it put the ball deep in their own territory, the 10-yard line to be exact. Jakomas tried a pass and it failed. Jakomas tried another pass and this time Freddy McKee intercepted it on the McKeesport 28.

Lee attempted a pass to Buccini, but it was grounded. On the next play the stream-lined "Statue of Liberty" play clicked to perfection. Ciazza taking the ball from Lee and skipping 29 yards this time for his second touchdown. The New Castle backfield star had perfect blocking

Union Loses To Bessemer

Joe McGree And Carmen Pezzuolo Star For Cement City Eleven

LARGE CROWD SEES BATTLE ON FRIDAY

Digging their cleats into pay soil three times in the second half, Bessemer High marched closer to another Lawrence County Class B championship by eliminating a scrappy Union Township aggregation, 20-0, Friday afternoon in Bessemer, before more than 1,000 fans.

Walter Jaskolka's trusty toe kept Bessemer deep in its territory during most of the first period. Midway in the period, McGree's pass was poked by Johnson who raced from his 42 to Union's 32. McGree called a similar play but Ringbloom leaped in the air and plucked the ball. He was headed for a touchdown but was overtaken on Bessemer's 32. A clipping penalty against Union nullified the gallop, giving Union possession on the Scotland Laners' 12.

McGree Intercepts
After one play, Jaskolka lifted a punt past the mid-strip. Unable to gain, Bessemer punted, Union taking the oval on their 40. Here, Union tried a short pass over the scrimmage line. McGree snatched the ball and was nailed on Union's 42. Pezzuolo scooted around end to Union's 30 and Gallo fought his way over center to the 21.

Bessemer drew two penalties, one for being off-side and another setback of 15 yards for clipping.

During the remainder of the quarter, Union played an excellent defensive game, never permitting their adversaries to move within scoring territory. Near the close of the half, however, Bessemer carried the pigskin to the 27, the result of line play by McGree, Johnston and Gallo and a short pass, McGree to Pezzuolo. Time killed the threat.

Bessemer Scores
In the third period, following an exchange of punts, Bessemer took the ball on the 50. McGree and Johnston shot through center on successive attempts to the Union 34. From this time, Joe McGree backed up several yards and whizzed a pass into the waiting arms of Carmen Pezzuolo. The left end dodged would be tacklers and scored a touchdown. McGree, a central figure in the touchdown march, annexed the extra point via placement.

After Union failed to reel off substantial yardage, the Scotland Laners booted to their 42, shortly after the start of hostilities in the fourth. Swanson unloaded an aerial into the hands of McGree who scampered to the 10. Johnston crashed over center to the 6 and McGree reached the 2 on a similar play. McGree darted over the last line. He also split the uprights to give Bessemer a 14-0 edge.

Centemers Score Again
Ringbloom took the kick-off and reached his 38 but fumbled. Pezzuolo falling on the loose ball. Two line threats by McGree and a 5 yard off-side penalty against Union placed the ball on the 29. Squeglia picked up to the 27 and Swanson shot a short pass to Squeglia to the Union 22. Union was penalized half the distance to the goal line for "fighting". On the third line plunge, McGree charged over for Bessemer's final touchdown. McGree's placement kick was wide.

The game was loaded with thrills throughout. Joe McGree, Bessemer quarterback, was easily the outstanding performer on the field. He was on the "in" in practically every play. Carmen Pezzuolo at left end, was at McGree's heels for honors. Bessemer's chunky line looked good.

For Union, Taylor was a thorn in the path of the Bessemer carpenter on several occasions; so was Carpenter. Jaskolka was outstanding in the ball carrying division.

During intermission, Bessemer High's nattily attired band strutted on the field, scoring a decided hit. East Brady, to be met next Saturday away from home.

It would be unusual should a person not notice one or two nice squirrel scampering across North Hill streets. Late yesterday afternoon a squad of several hundred cat birds set up a terrific din as they cattered several oak trees. It wouldn't be a poor idea for those owning cats to fasten a small bell about their necks. The tinkle-tinkle will save many rabbits and birds. It may also be recalled that hunting in the various parks here is prohibited.

David W. Axe, 920 Morton street and Robert Preston, 115 East street, have returned from a successful fishing expedition in Canada. Preston caught a 23 1/2 pound "muskie". Their total catch was five good sized "muskies" and five bass.

ADAMO SUFFERS SPLIT TONGUE
Ernest Adamo, of 216 South Cedar street, guard on the high school football team, was removed to the Jameson Memorial hospital following last night's football game with McKeesport.

New Castle Band Given Fine Hand

Director Joe Replogle led the New Castle band into a huge lettering of NCHS and played the New Castle Alma Mater song, then formed the McKeesport High school song. Several snappy tunes were unfolded after the playing of the two school songs.

The New Castle band gets snappier and snappier each game and are bound to make a big hit on the Johnston trip. The band will not go to Washington next Friday night.

Shenango Ties Freedom Eleven

Schoolboys Play Third Consecutive Scoreless Tie Here On Friday

BOTH TEAMS MISS SCORING CHANCE

Shenango Township and Freedom High played a 0-0 tie for the third consecutive season on Friday afternoon on Shenango field.

Throughout the first half neither eleven was able to pierce within the opponent's 35. Unable to mark off substantial yardage, the rivals staged an interesting punting duel.

Near the start of the fourth canto, Bob Denny, Shenango captain, drew the plaids of the gallery by booting a punt that traveled 80 yards. Bob Pitzer, alert Shenango wingman, fell on the ball on Freedom's 10.

The invaders quickly kicked. The boot, however, was poor and Shenango took possession on Freedom's 30.

Majski, O'Neil and Denny each took a crack at Freedom's beefy wall and the trio succeeded in moving the spheroid to the Freedom 10. Majski and Denny knifed through center to the 7. Two passes in the end zone missed the mark, curbing Shenango's lone chance to score.

The visitors partially blocked a Shenango kick on the locals' 35 shortly after. Two line thrusts and a pair of shots through the rough Shenango frontier line thwarted Freedom's chance to reach pay soil.

Despite the fact that Shenango's line was outweighed about 10 pounds per man, the East New Castle gridgers held up their end incredibly, refusing to yield. In the backfield, Denny and Majski were stellar.

In addition to the 0-0 score, the schoolboys broke even in first downs, each club registering six.

Thursday afternoon, Shenango Township invades Mars, Pa.

FIELD TRIALS ARE UNDER WAY

Large Crowd Is Present For New Castle Fair Grounds Program

Field trials of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association today were under way at the New Castle Fair grounds. According to reports received in the city this morning a good crowd is present.

Some of the best bird dogs, beagles and coon dogs in the tri-state district were entered in the trials.

A large number of trap and skeet shooters also were present, likewise those who like pistol and rifle shooting.

One of the most favorite attractions was casting bait and fly and many women participated in 22 calibre rifle shooting.

Although in the past, proclivities ceased at six p. m. this will not be the case tonight because the trap and skeet shoot ranges are illuminated and shooting will last until midnight.

The affair is being conducted by committeemen operating under the supervision of President George Silman.

SHORT SPORTS

Jay Wyatt, popular Western conference official for many years, will work his last game when Notre Dame meets College of the Pacific in the opener at South Bend Saturday (Oct. 5). Wyatt, who has been officiating for 30 years, worked his first game when Central and Westminster played in Missouri in 1910, the year following his graduation from the University of Missouri. Wyatt will serve as head linesman Saturday.

ITHACA, N. Y.—Saturday's opener with Colgate marked the 25th anniversary of Cornell football on Schoellkopf Field. First game was against Gettysburg in 1915, at which no admittance fee was charged for seats in the Freest. This is the 54th year of football at Cornell.

Famous numbers that were worn by famous names in Notre Dame football history have been reassigned to members of the 1940 Notre Dame squad.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Saturday sports cocktail:—Freddy Shaffer, whose trusty arm helped skyrocket Louisville to the American Association League championship, is due in town today. The blond peger, recalled from Little Rock near the tail end of the A. A. program, fired a couple of important victories for the Colonels. In the Little World Series, the local athlete saw action in two of the games.

Junior high school operatives say Bob Doster is a lad worth watching. The George Washington grid flash handles the left halfback post with lustre. The north hill speed clipper marked off several long gallops against Farrell several days ago. In addition, Doster paraded into pay dirt twice. By the time he hits "Hurricane" land, Doster figures to be ripe for the AA brand of football.

To fan asking about Jim Thorpe: The ex-Carlisle Indian star is 52 years old. He tips the beams at 225 pounds. One of the greatest kickers in the history of the game. Thorpe believes the game needs more field goals. To S. P. Notre Dame University will drop Carnegie Tech from its football schedule after 1941.

Francis Joseph Murray, coach of Virginia University which set back Yale, never played football. He was graduated from Tufts in 1908.

The last names of eight of Boston College's grid players end in "ski". Since John Kimbrough, Texas A. & M. line crusher deluxe, has added pass-tossing and pass-catching to his repertoire, he stands in line for the player of the season award in collegiate ranks.

Recent high school game between Lilly and Cresson was halted during the third quarter when the lights went out. The lamps remained that way.

Jimmy Wilson, who still is our hero of the World Series, was wrapped up like a mummy for the finale. He was loaded with about 40 yards of adhesive tape. Mrs. Wilson added a bit more color to the series end by asking Cincy officials to give her the second base which her husband pilfered. Her request was granted. L. S. U. ranks as one of the top "night teams" in collegiate ranks. Under the maddas, Louisiana is rough to handle, having dropped but few tiffs since adopting the owl game.

NEW CASTLE DEFEATS MCKEESPORT 34 TO 12

Ciazza And Lee Local Standouts

New Castle High Hangs Up Fifth Win Of Year; Crowd Thrills As Brletic Of McKeesport Races 95 Yards After Taking Kickoff; Ciazza Scores Three Times; Lee Tallies Twice; Locals Ahead In First Downs 10 To 5; Crowd Of Between 6,000 And 7,000 At Game.

None of the wildest and wildest football games seen here in many years, a hard-fought and determined New Castle high "Red Hurricane" football machine defeated a scrappy McKeesport Tiger grid eleven at Tackett stadium last night before a crowd of between 6,000 and 7,000 fans. It was New Castle's fifth win of the current season.

If the grid lovers went to the game looking for thrills the schoolboys supplied them with plenty. The game goes down as one of the most breath-taking played here in years. There were no dull moments. Sammy Ciazza, just four plays after the opening kickoff, raced 31 yards for the first New Castle touchdown, and the big crowd had an inkling of what was to come.

Packed With Thrills
This was a Class AA battle. It marked New Castle's second Class AA victory, only the Butler high team having won one before. The McKeesport Tigers gave all they had, they used every play that they had in the bag, but the New Castle deception and tricky ball handling was too much for them. The blocking of the New Castle team was close to perfect.

In the matter of first downs New Castle had the better of it, registering 10 to 5 for the Allegheny Countians. It was the wildest open contest seen in many a moon. There was none of this do-or-die stands at the goal line. All of the touchdowns were of the thrill-producing variety.

As mentioned above McKeesport kicked off to New Castle to start the game and then without giving up the ball, the "Red Hurricanes" were over the goal line with Sammy Ciazza lugging the ball. The majority of the first period after the New Castle marker was played in mid-field with both sides kicking several times.

Ciazza Tallies Again
The start of the second period found McKeesport with the ball on their own 46-yard line. Peters and McClelland entered the game, the former going into the New Castle line, and the latter to the visitors' backfield. McClelland, a colored speedster, picked up 24 yards right off the bat, but the Tigers were off-side and drew a five-yard penalty. Jakomas punted out of bounds on the New Castle 43.

Ciazza made a first down on the Tigers 27-yard line, for a 31-yard gain, taking the ball on a reverse play. Lee passed, and it was taken by Kerr of the visiting team on the McKeesport 25-yard line. The McKeesport team drew a 15-yard penalty for holding and it put the ball deep in their own territory, the 10-yard line to be exact. Jakomas tried a pass and it failed. Jakomas tried another pass and this time Freddy McKee intercepted it on the McKeesport 29.

Lee attempted a pass to Bucell, but it was grounded. On the next play the stream-lined "Statue of Liberty" play clicked to perfection, Ciazza taking the ball from Lee and skipping 20 yards this time for his second touchdown. The New Castle backfield star had perfect blocking by McKee, Audio, Adamo and Bucell. The extra-point was made by Adamo. New Castle 14, McKeesport 0.

Lee Goes For Touchdown
Adamo kicked off to McKeesport, McClelland taking the ball and being downed on his own 20-yard line. Jakomas picked up five. Jakomas attempted a pass, and General Lee, leaping into the air, speared the ball, and directed his way to the goal line 30 yards away. He made it easily, behind a lot of nice interference and blocking by the linemen and his fellow backs. Adamo missed the extra-point, making it New Castle 20, McKeesport 0.

Following the third touchdown, Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh sent in eleven new men to replace his regulars. Burris kicked off to Brletic, a sub for Goldberg, in the McKeesport backfield, and returned the ball from the 12 to the Tiger 40-yard line. McClelland was run out of bounds, after a four-yard gain. Jakomas made it a first down on the New Castle 49.

Visitors Rally On Pass
Jakomas made seven, but the Tigers were off side and drew a penalty. McClelland made two, and Jakomas made a yard, just inches from a first down. McClelland made a first down on the New Castle 35. McClelland lost four. Jakomas caught the New Castle reserves sleeping and passed to Brletic for a 39-yard and the fleet McKeesport backfield man was over for the first McKeesport touchdown. The try for the extra-point, a Jakomas pass to Van Eman, failed. New Castle 20, McKeesport 6.

The entire New Castle varsity team raced back on the field. Van Eman kicked off to McKeesport. New Castle 20, McKeesport 12. Lee lost 12 yards on a bad pass from center. Bucell passed and it was intercepted by Van Eman on the New Castle 36. McClelland made a yard, Jakomas tried a pass and it was broken up. Jakomas tried another pass and Roberts grabbed it and raced to the McKeesport 43 before he was downed. Lee fumbled and recovered just as the first half ended.

The third period began with Van Eman a former Lawrence County boy kicking off to New Castle. Ciazza taking the ball and being hauled down on the New Castle 39. Lee returned Lee tried two passes to Bucell and failed to complete them. Ciazza made it a first down on the McKeesport 44 for a gain of 21 yards. Lee again passed but it was grounded. Lee made three yards at center. Lee passed to Roberts without result. Bucell punted to the Tigers out-of-bounds on the Tigers 22 yard line.

Ciazza Over Third Time
Seahorn lost five on a try at the line. Seahorn made 10 the next time, and then Seahorn called on to punt and got away a nice boot to Ciazza who took the ball on his own 42 and punted to the McKeesport 30 for a 28 yard ballup.

Roberts lateraled to Lee for a nine yard gain. Lee made a first down on the McKeesport 20, Ciazza picked up four. Ciazza to Lee on a reverse was good for four more. Lee made three more and a first down on the Tigers 10-yard line. Roberts was hurt and replaced by Burris. Burris made a yard. Ciazza on the next play circled left and behind a flock of New Castle path-clearers and was over for his third touchdown. Burris kicked the extra-point making it New Castle 27—McKeesport 6.

McClelland Races 95 Yards For Marker
Shades of "Red Grange" and what not, were enacted at this spot in the all-ready thrill packed game, as Burris kicked off for New Castle following the fourth touchdown. The ball was well kicked and found the waiting arms of Pete Brletic of the McKeesport right-half back, who was standing on the five-yard line one minute and the next minute was speeding toward the New Castle line with the entire New Castle team after him, and they never got close to Pete, as he sped with all his might for the second McKeesport touchdown.

It was as nice a run as seen here in many years. Van Eman tried the extra-point but it was blocked. New Castle 27—McKeesport 12.

Van Eman kicked off to New Castle following the sensational run by Brletic. Ciazza taking the ball and returning to the New Castle 33 from the 10. Ciazza fumbled and recovered for a seven-yard loss. Burris made 10 at right end. Ciazza made it a first down on the McKeesport 32. New Castle drew a 15 yard penalty for roughness and it was first and 25 on the McKeesport 44, as the third period ended.

Lee Scores Fifth Touchdown
New Castle started a passing attack as the fourth period began but without much success. Bucell punted to the invaders on the McKeesport 12. A nice boot. Seahorn made a yard. Jakomas passed to Van Eman for eight yards. Jakomas carried the ball for no gain. Seahorn punted to New Castle out of bounds on the McKeesport 38 yard line.

The New Castle reserves went back into action at this time and finished the game. The Tigers could not get in scoring position again. Summing up the ball game, we have to hand it to Sammy Ciazza, Robert Lee, Freddy McKee, Joe Audio and Al Bucell, all of them playing a fine game, and the New Castle blockers who made the touchdowns possible.

Standouts for the McKeesport team were Brletic, Seahorn, Van Eman and Mariotti.

Union Loses To Bessemer

Joe McCree And Carmen Pezzuolo Star For Cement City Eleven

LARGE CROWD SEES BATTLE ON FRIDAY

Digging their cleats into pay soil three times in the second half, Bessemer High marched closer to another Lawrence County Class B championship by eliminating the scrappy Union Township aggregation, 20-0, Friday afternoon in Bessemer, before more than 1,000 fans.

Walter Jaskolka's trusty toe kept Bessemer deep in its territory during most of the first period. Midway in the period, McCree's pass was poked by Johnson who raced from his 42 to Union's 32. McCree called a similar play but Ringbloom leaped in the air and plucked the ball. He was headed for a touchdown but was overtaken on Bessemer's 32. A clipping penalty against Union nullified the gallop, giving Union possession on the Scotland Line's 12.

McCree intercepts After one play, Jaskolka lifted a punt past the mid-stripe. Unable to gain, Bessemer punted, Union taking the oval on their 40. Here, Union tried a short pass over the scrimmage, line man snatched the ball and was tackled on Union's 42. Pezzuolo scooted around end to Union's 30 and Gallo fought his way over center to the 26. After McCree bulled through center to the 21, Bessemer drew two penalties, one for being off-side and another setback of 16 yards for tripping.

During a short pass, McCree's quarter, Union played an excellent defensive game, never permitting their adversary to move within scoring territory. Near the close of the half, however, Bessemer carried the pigskin to the 27, the result of line thrusts by McCree, Johnson, and Gallo. The ball on Freedom's 10. The invaders quickly kicked. The boot, however, was poor and Shenango took possession on Freedom's 30.

Majeski, O'Neil and Denny each took a crack at Freedom's beefy wall and the trio succeeded in moving the sphere to the Freedom 10. Daskewski and Denny knifed through center to the 7. Two passes in the end zone missed the mark, curbing Shenango's lone chance to score.

Shaffer To Hurl For Elder Team

Fred Shaffer Of Louisville AA Team Consents To Take Mound In Season's Farewell

Fred Shaffer will perform before the home town folks Sunday afternoon.

The blond Louisville Colonel twirler is slated to don an Elder A. C. uniform to pitch against the Lawrence Indies, City League champs and recent conquerors of Ellwood City. County League bauble winners. The game will be played Sunday afternoon on Elder field, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Paul Coulter, another localite who is rapidly scaling the ladder of success, will catch.

The game is expected to attract a large gallery.

FIELD TRIALS ARE UNDER WAY

Large Crowd Is Present For New Castle Fair Grounds Program

Field trials of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association today were under way at the New Castle Fair Grounds. According to reports received in the city this morning a good crowd is present.

Some of the best bird dogs, beagles and coon dogs in the tri-state district were entered in the trials. A large number of trap and skeet shooters also were present, likewise those who like pistol and rifle shooting.

One of the most favorite attractions was casting bait and fly and many women participated in 22 calibre rifle shooting.

Although in the past, proclivities ceased at six p. m. this will not be the case tonight because the trap and skeet shoot ranges are illuminated and shooting will last until midnight.

The affair is being conducted by committeemen operating under the supervision of President George Silman.

SHORT SPORTS

Jay Wyatt, popular Western conference official for many years, will work his last game when Notre Dame meets College of the Pacific in the opener at South Bend Saturday (Oct. 5). Wyatt, who has been officiating for 30 years, worked his first game when Central and Westminster played in Missouri in 1910, the year following his graduation from the University of Missouri. Wyatt will serve as head linesman Saturday.

ITHACA, N. Y.—Saturday's opening with Colgate marked the 25th anniversary of Cornell football on Schoellkopf Field. First game was against Gettysburg in 1915, at which no admittance fee was charged for seats in the Crescent. This is the 54th year of football at Cornell.

Famous numbers that were worn by famous names in Notre Dame football history have been reassigned to members of the 1940 Notre Dame squad.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Saturday sports cocktail:—Freddy Shaffer, whose trusty arm helped to skyrocket Louisville to the American Association League championship, is due in town today. The blond peger, recalled from Little Rock near the tail end of the A. A. program, fired a couple of important victories for the Colonels. In the Little World Series, the local athlete saw action in two of the games.

Junior high school operatives say Bob Doster is a lad worth watching. The George Washington grid flash handles the left halfback post with lustre. The north hill speed clipper marked off several long gallops against Farrell several days ago. In addition, Doster paraded into pay dirt twice. By the time he hits "Hurricane" land, Doster figures to be ripe for the AA brand of football.

To fan asking about Jim Thorpe: The ex-Carlisle Indian star is 52 years old. He tips the beams at 225 pounds. One of the greatest kickers in the history of the game, Thorpe believes the game needs more field goals. To S. P. Notre Dame University will drop Carnegie Tech from its football schedule after 1941.

Francis Joseph Murray, coach of Virginia University which set back Yale, never played football. He was graduated from Tufts in 1908. Massillon High school has dropped but one grid decision in the past five years. New Castle owning that distinction. Since Paul Brown took command of the Ohio juggernaut, some eight years ago, Massillon won 74, dropped eight and has been deadlocked twice.

The last names of eight of Boston College's grid players end in "ski". Since John Kimbrough, Texas A. & M. line crusher deluxe, has added pass-tossing and pass-catching to his repertoire, he stands in line for the player of the season award in collegiate ranks. The recent high school game between Lilly and Cresson was halted during the third quarter when the lights went out. The lamps remained that way.

Jimmy Wilson, who still is our hero of the World Series, was wrapped up like a mummy for the finale. He was loaded with about 40 yards of adhesive tape. Mrs. Wilson added a bit more color to the series end by asking Clancy officials to give her the second base which her husband pilfered. Her request was granted. L. S. U. ranks as one of the top "night teams" in collegiate ranks. Under the mazzas, Louisiana is rough to handle, having dropped but few wins since adopting the owl game.

St. Josephs To Play Ford City

Rev. Father Peter M. Schirra will take his St. Joseph's junior football team to Ford City Sunday to meet the St. Mary's junior eleven of that city. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

About 32 young boys will make the trip to the Glass City. The Saints have been working out diligently after school each afternoon and hope to bring back a victory tomorrow.

The earliest ticket sell-out in Cornell history has occurred in the case of the Ohio State game. All the tickets are gone now—three and a half weeks before the date of the contest.

George Toporcer, manager of the Albany club in the Eastern league, has been mentioned as Dick Porter's successor at Syracuse.

Plan To Light Football Field

Board Starts Move For Permanent Lighting Of Lincoln Field

OTHER MATTERS BEFORE BOARD

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—Because of the sizable financial returns noted in the two night football games played here in September, a permanent lighting system will be installed on the Lincoln Athletic field. It was agreed at the regular October meeting of the Board of Education held last night at the high school office.

Believing the system to be a community benefit, the Board will ask the Boro Council to install the poles and provide free electricity with the Board to purchase the lights. Dr. H. E. Helling, president of the Board, said he believed favorable action would be taken by Council.

If lights are installed, it will be necessary to enlarge the seating capacity of the bleachers. At present, the total capacity is 2,000, with 185 of those being reserved seats on the roof. It is expected that one thousand steel bleachers will be installed on the roof under an enclosed roof to provide protection from unfavorable weather. Additional steel bleachers may be erected on the playing field.

It is likely that the following night games will be scheduled for next year: Union Township, September 12; Munhall, September 19; Monaca, October 10 and Midland, October 17.

From a comparison made with receipts from 1938 to 1940 inclusive, it was shown that increase receipts for the two night games played here amounted from four to six hundred dollars per game. Receipts from the Union Township game of this year totaled $1,012 compared with $621 for last year's opening game, and for the second game with Rochester $1,118 compared with $645 for the Rochester day game of the previous year. Figures were compared with the $680 taken in at Elwood's third and daylight game with Butler.

The night school enrollment is approximately 350 and is continuing to grow. This is the first year when capacity classes are the rule rather than the exception. Many registrations had to be refused because of filled classes. Students have asked for training in machine shop practice, higher mathematics, chemistry, history, commercial art and metalurgy and the superintendent said that he wished the organization might become flexible enough to meet every requirement.

Total tax receipts for the month of September were exceptionally high denoting the improved working conditions of the community. The largest amount of total tax receipts of $95,068 was $83,767 for 1940 property tax, which brings 93 per cent collected to date. Per capita tax for 1940 was listed at $8.768, or a total collection of 7 per cent. An appropriation of $33,806 was received during the month as was $4,211 in tuition from outlying districts.

Disbursements showed that $45,000 had been deposited in five out-of-town banks, leaving a total balance at the local bank of $81,475, still above the amount legally allowed.

In keeping with a state request, there will be no school on Registration Day, Wednesday, October 16. Some of the teachers will aid local election board in registering and students will be sent to the places, so requesting, to type the cards. The Thanksgiving holiday will be observed on November 28 and 29.

R. C. Shaffer, principal, was given permission to attend the principal's conference at Harrisburg on October 24 and 25.

A new lighting system may be installed in the school shop, following an inspection by the board members.

Community Center Must Be Sponsored By Official Body

Committees Believe Project Could Be Sponsored By Council For $2500 Per Year

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—"How should we go about organizing a Community Center program in Ellwood City?" is the question which the Community Center Investigating committee will attempt to answer in this article.

In the first place, in order to be legally recognized, a community program must be sponsored by some local official body, most logically the borough council.

The sponsoring body, when it has accepted this responsibility, should name a permanent community council, or board, to replace the present temporary committee which as a legally appointed group, would have the authority to solicit the necessary funds, to employ a director and supervisors, and to plan and manage the affairs of the community program.

N. Y. A. or W. P. A. help is available only for projects under the sponsorship of some official group. Under the proposed plan, the principal item of expense in the community program, would be the salary and office expense of the director, and if these items are kept to a minimum, the program could be carried on for less than $2500.00 per year.

Community Center Must Be Sponsored By Official Body

Committees Believe Project Could Be Sponsored By Council For $2500 Per Year

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 12.—"How should we go about organizing a Community Center program in Ellwood City?" is the question which the Community Center Investigating committee will attempt to answer in this article.

In the first place, in order to be legally recognized, a community program must be sponsored by some local official body, most logically the borough council.

The sponsoring body, when it has accepted this responsibility, should name a permanent community council, or board, to replace the present temporary committee which as a legally appointed group, would have the authority to solicit the necessary funds, to employ a director and supervisors, and to plan and manage the affairs of the community program.

N. Y. A. or W. P. A. help is available only for projects under the sponsorship of some official group.
